

Nikko AM NZ Corporate Bond Strategy

Monthly Update 30 November 2024

Assets are held in the Nikko AM Wholesale NZ Corporate Bond Fund. The Nikko AM NZ Corporate Bond Fund (retail) and the Nikko AM KiwiSaver NZ Corporate Bond Fund invest in units in the wholesale fund, which the commentary refers to.

Market Overview

- Bond returns were positive as the move higher in yields following Trump's Presidential victory began to unwind.
- The yield curve steepened slightly in shape as short-term rates had larger falls than longer maturities.
- There has been an increase in new bond deals to the market which has caused a modest widening in credit margins.

Fund Highlights

- The longer duration position was of benefit as interest rates moved lower delivering some modest capital gains.
  - There was a reasonable amount of new bond issuance over the month, and we continue to add quality credit to maintain a higher yield.
- We expect the funds will continue to perform well over the medium term as the cash rate continues lower and carry-and-roll makes a larger contribution to returns with a positive shaped yield curve.

Overview

The strategy aims to generate income by constructing an actively managed investment portfolio of New Zealand bonds, deposits, and cash with the potential for capital gain from New Zealand dollar fixed interest markets.

Objective

The fund aims to outperform the benchmark return by 0.70% per annum before fees, expenses and taxes over a rolling three-year period.

Market Commentary

NZ bonds had a positive return for November as interest rates recovered lower in yield, unwinding some of the jump higher following Trump's Presidential victory. Fund performance was supported by a higher yield through quality credit and some modest capital gain with rates lower over the month.

In terms of sector performance, the fund's credit holdings continue to perform well. There has been some gradual widening of credit margins following an increase in supply, but over the medium term a higher yield should help support performance. The NZ yield curve has continued to steepen in shape with shorter rates having larger falls than longer maturity bonds. NZ governments generally performed better than swap with larger falls in yield. Interest rate moves for NZ government bonds were 1yr -13bps, 5yr -5.5 bps, 10yr -10bps, and the 2054 bond -4.5bps. NZ Swap rates were 1yr -2bps, 5 yr -2.5bps, 10yr -10bps, and 30yr -1bp.

The NZ bond market continues to remain reasonably well supported relative to global bonds with our market viewed a "safer bet" supported by a weaker economy, and a lower rates outlook. It is easier to have a higher conviction on the direction of short-term rates as these are more heavily influenced by the actions of the RBNZ and local economic outcomes that we expect should remain supportive with the cash rate moving lower. Longer maturity bonds look attractive in terms of a higher yield and potential for further modest capital gains. The caveat is longer bonds are more subject to the direction of offshore bond moves and there is greater uncertainty around growth and inflation outcomes in the US that could keep curves steeper.

We continue to like quality credit to maintain a higher yield and expect that carry-and-roll will make a larger contribution to returns going forward with the yield curve positive in shape. NZ government bonds have remained cheap relative to swap rates because of higher supply and where appropriate we hold an increased weighting to governments with the view that they will likely outperform swap products over the medium term.

Fund Commentary

The fund had a positive return of 0.7% and outperformed its benchmark the Bloomberg Credit which returned 0.4%.

The key drivers of absolute and relative returns were the move lower in interest rates, and the fund's higher yield accrual from quality credit. The longer duration positioning was helpful as rates fell delivering modest capital gains. Credit margins have widened slightly (from previously tight levels) with more bond supply, but a gradual widening should benefit returns through a higher yield over the medium term.

We continue to favour adding quality credit to maintain a higher fund yield which has proved a consistent value-add over time. We expect bonds can continue to perform well as cash rates are moved lower. The upward sloping yield curve will provide the fund with opportunity to execute a carry and roll strategy which should provide an additional contribution to future returns.
